TRAUMA

Multiple trauma has become known as the most neglected disease. Trauma kills more people between the ages of 15 and 24 than all other causes combined and is the leading cause of death and disability for all groups up to the age of 45. The Emergency Nurses Association (ENA) recognized that these statistics were grim reminders that the lack of prompt, definitive and standardized trauma care was producing fragmented, and presumably substandard, care for trauma patients. The ability to provide a mechanism that would elevate the quality of care for trauma victims became a priority within the association.

TNCC has been designed by nurses for nurses. The intent is to provide a consistent knowledge base and approach among nurses rendering trauma care. It is intended to enhance cognitive skills, to sharpen technical skills and to provide a foundation for future learning. The ultimate purpose is to improve the level of care provided in emergency care settings, large and small, rural and urban.
